- ✓ Inventory of "Active" available homes for sale was 7,587 at month's end – a 1.57% increase in inventory over the previous month.
- ✓ Prices are beginning to level-off and, in some cases, price reductions are making their way back into the marketplace.
- ✓ Our market peaked in June and sellers will need to re-adjust their expectations as they encounter buyer resistance.
- ✓ Buyers should seriously consider writing backup offers as the number of properties coming back on the market increases.
- ✓ Recent volatility in the stock market will likely encourage the Federal Reserve to keep interest rates unchanged for the coming months.
- ✓ Although sellers continue to do remarkably well, Denver is slowly moving toward a more balanced market as MOI inches up.
- ✓ August market remained very competitive <$350,000 and there are no signs of decreased demand as rents continue to skyrocket.
- ✓ DMAR REALTORS® reporting a reduction in showing activity and we'll likely start seeing an increase of DOM heading into fall.

▶ EXPERT OPINION:

As businessman Allen Klein once said "a little perspective, like a little humor, goes a long way." Without question this market has caused everyone to lose a little perspective. Sellers were happily cashing in as prices were peaking in June and buyers were frantically making decisions that weren't always in their best interest. Meanwhile, brokers were quick to criticize me for pointing out the market was "cooling off" because they were as busy as they've ever been. The humor comes from understanding that just because DMAR reports that the market is sizzling hot or cooling off doesn't mean one extreme or the other. It's a gentle reminder to everyone that "real estate is local" and we're reporting stats and trends based on an 11-county Denver Metro area, so it's quite possible that your city, zip code or neighborhood is experiencing something that's not necessarily consistent with the headlines. Therefore, it's critical that I remind my fellow REALTORS® to understand the full market and keep things in perspective so we can better serve our homebuyers and sellers.

Digging into the August MLS stats. 6,416 New Listings came on the market, while 5,383 homes were placed under contract and 5,088 homes Sold and Closed. We closed out the month with 7,587 Active Listings – representing a 1.57% increase over the previous month, which was still 6.55% less than what we had available in August 2014. As we look at the month-over-month Detached Single Family Home market, we saw a significant decrease of 15.53% in New Listings while the Average and Median Sold Prices remained relatively unchanged from the previous month at -0.23% to $410,525 and -0.21% to $349,250 respectively. The Condo market (aka Attached Single Family) showed the supply of New Listings drop 11.17% over the previous month while the Average Sold Prices ticked up ever-so-slightly 0.77% to $256,046 and the Median Price remained unchanged at $215,000. For the entire Residential (RES) market, which includes Attached & Detached properties, Under Contracts decreased by 1.84%; Sold Listings decreased 15.27% and total Sales Volume dropped 15.23% to $1.86B from the previous month. Finally, a quick summary of the year-to-date (YTD) residential market stats shows new listings at 48,970; Days on Market (DOM) at 29; Average Price at $363,228 and a record-smashing $13.5 billion in total Sales Volume.

Inventory levels will continue increasing slightly as over-priced properties begin competing with new appropriately priced listings, and prices will likely remain neutral. Rental rates have skyrocketed at 3x the national average so buyer demand will remain very high. Recent volatility in the stock market most likely means The Federal Reserve will keep interest rates unchanged for the coming months. The selling season peaked in June, so it's essential for sellers to re-adjust their expectations or they will encounter buyer resistance. As our months-of-inventory (MOI) inches up, it moves us closer and closer towards a more balanced market.

▶ EXPERT OPINION | Luxury, Signature, Premier Reports

As the price ranges go up, the market activity goes down, but things are still good when looking at the bigger picture," says Jill Schafer, DMAR Market Trends Committee member. August saw a nearly 19% drop off in the Premiere Market, sales of condos and single family homes priced between $500,000 and $749,999, compared to July's hot market. However, there was still nearly 18% more properties in this middle price range that sold than last August. "Home sellers had to keep their homes show-ready for nine days longer in August than the previous month," Schafer says. "But, it was probably worth it to them as they got $5 more per square foot than the month before." DMAR Market Trends Committee Member Nicole Rufener adds, "I'd say the Premiere Market is still very much a buyer's market with 3.23 months of single-family inventory available and 3.51 months of condo inventory in this price range."

Move up a little higher in price and it moved a bit slower still in August. The number of sales in the Signature Market of properties priced between $750,000 and $999,999 was down nearly 12% from July to August. Year over year, however, homes sold in this price range were still up more than 23%. "Despite that dip last month, it's still a strong market comparatively in this price point," adds Schafer. Year to date, the number of Signature properties sold was up 36.58% from last year and 43% more year-to-date from 2013. "So, the bigger picture looks good," says Schafer. Also, properties in this price point sold 14% faster in August than July and nearly 27% faster than August 2014. Year to date, homes and condos in the Signature Market are selling eight days faster than last year and three weeks faster than two years ago. "The Signature Market is looking very balanced for homebuyers and sellers right now," says Rufener. There is 4.73 months of inventory (MOI) for single family homes and 6.58 MOI for condos in this segment.

But things slow again when you get to the Luxury Market of properties over $1,000,000. The number of luxury sales (condo and single family) was down 9.48% from July to August. But luxury properties sold faster at 92 days in August versus 112 days in July. Year to date, the number of single family homes sold, priced at $1,000,000 plus, was up 23% compared to year-to-date last year and up more than 30% from year-to-date 2013. Those who sold luxury homes this year got $5 more a square foot than last year, and $13 more a square foot from two years ago. "So it's still a rosy picture when looking at the overall trend of the Luxury Market," says Schafer.

"It seems like months of inventory are creeping back up in the Luxury and Signature Markets," says Rufener. Homebuyers had the most choices in the luxury price ranges in January 2015 with 16.43 MOI in single family homes and 24 MOI of condos. "January of this year had all-time highs. Inventory levels have been dropping since then until this month, when they rose to 9.27 MOI for single family and 10 MOI for condos. "Compared to January's high inventory figures, these numbers look pretty good, but it's still a buyer's market for homes priced over a million.

▶ GLOSSARY

Active Listings = the number of properties available for sale at the end of the reported period. The availability of homes for sale has a big effect on supply-demand dynamics and home prices.

New Listings = the number of properties which became available during the reported period.

Under Contract = the number of listings that were changed status from Active to Under Contract at the end of the reported period. Under Contract listings are counted at the end of the reported period. Each listing can only be counted one time. If a listing goes into Under Contract, out of Under Contract, then back into Under Contract all in one reported period, the listing would only be counted once. This is the most real-time measure possible for home buyer activity, as it measures signed contracts on sales rather than the actual closed sale. As such, it is called a "leading indicator" of buyer demand.

Days on Market (DOM) = a measure of how long it takes a given property to sell, on average.

Sold Listings = a measure of home sales that sold and closed during the reported period.

Average Sales Price = a sum of all home sales prices divided by the total number of sales. Not considered the most accurate gauge since data from the high-end can easily skew the results.

Median Sales Price = a measure of home values in a market area where 50% of activity was higher and 50% was lower than this price point. This method is preferred because it's more insulated from outlying activity occurring at either tail end of the market.

Months Supply of Inventory (MOI) = A measure of how balanced the market is between buyers and sellers. It is expressed as the number of months it would hypothetically take to sell through all the available homes for sale currently, given current levels of home sales. A balanced market ranges from 4 to 6 months of supply. A buyer's market has a higher number, reflecting fewer buyers relative to homes for sale. A seller's market has a lower number, reflecting more buyers relative to homes for sale.

Residential (RES) = Represents the overall housing market which includes activity of Single Family Homes as well as Condos.

Single Family (Detached Homes) = activity of Detached Single Family Homes.

Condo (Attached Homes) = activity of Attached Condos & Townhomes.

Premier Market = properties priced between $500,000 and $749,999.

Signature Market = properties priced between $750,000 and $999,999.

Luxury Market = properties priced at $1,000,000+ ($1M+).

REcolorado (formerly known as Metrolist) = the source of our MLS listings data.
